SOURCE Annual Report 2006-2007 Academic Year

The 2006-2007 academic year was SOURCE's second full academic year of operation. By comparing benchmark data from SOURCE's inaugural year, it is evident that the relatively new-found center has experienced significant growth and recognition. This annual report emphasizes a variety of accomplishments in relation to SOURCE's mission of providing academic, professional and personal development opportunities for the members of the JHU Schools of Medicine, Nursing, and Public Health through community outreach and service-learning partnerships with community-based organizations.

One major change within SOURCE during the 2006-2007 academic year was the addition of a new staff position. SOURCE grew from 2 full-time staff members and an independent contractor (full-time: Director, Administrative Assistant; independent contractor: Community Consultant) to 3 full-time staff members and an independent contractor. The new position, SOURCE Coordinator, was needed in order to meet the growing demand for integrating community-engaged activities into academic courses. SOURCE's Coordinator now handles the bulk of one-on-one counseling sessions for student volunteerism, service-based student group advising, and event planning for SOURCE's major activities. This has allowed SOURCE's Director to spend more time developing academic service-learning experiences for students in collaboration with faculty.

SOURCE 2006-2007 Goals:

1. Execute the improvement plan for the Connection community consulting group (including increased student participation, improved satisfaction results, sustainability, and automated matching system).
2. Enhance awareness of Baltimore health issues (Baltimore Week, increased programs, newsletter focus).
3. Increase faculty involvement/collaboration with SOURCE.
4. Advance civic engagement through service-learning initiatives (MPH Community Practicum Course, SOM Physicians and Society Course, SON Community Outreach Course, service-learning and CBPR course lists, etc).
5. Implement policies for service-learning courses (course listings from all three Schools, Acknowledgment of Personal Responsibility forms, panel to address safety and awareness when working with the community).

Goal Attainment and Challenges:

1. Execute the improvement plan for the Connection community consulting group (including increased student participation, improved satisfaction results, sustainability, and automated matching system).

In May 2006, plans were set into place to improve Connection systems. A JHSPH Systems Analyst volunteered to create a consultant database, along with a web interface for students to complete necessary paperwork. Unfortunately, due to the demand of HopkinsOne initiatives, the volunteer was unable to implement these new systems for use during 2006-2007. However, these components will be utilized for the 2007-2008 year. This setback did not derail our goal of increasing student participation and improving satisfaction. The Connection was able to successfully complete a total of 8 projects with the dedicated support of 31 student consultants. This year, more consultants joined the Connection from the Schools of Medicine and Nursing than in the past. Additionally, feedback from our first year of the Connection was utilized to implement additional logistics to clarify and simplify the Connection process for our consultant teams. (See Connection appendix on p. 22 for more information).

2. Enhance awareness of Baltimore health issues (Baltimore Week, increased programs, newsletter focus).

SOURCE's goal to enhance awareness of Baltimore health issues was successfully completed.

2006-2007 brought about the inaugural Baltimore Week, in conjunction with a large slate of student organizations. Baltimore Week took place in early October 2006 and consisted of a wide variety of well-attended programs and discussions. There was tremendous excitement and involvement from new students in particular, as they were quite interested to learn more about their new community. Additionally, SOURCE worked throughout the year in partnership with student organizations to bring a number of high profile events to campus (including World AIDS Day and the Ralph Moore Poverty Talk).

3. Increase faculty involvement/collaboration with SOURCE.

With increased staffing, SOURCE was able to spend more time working with faculty. Total faculty phone and email correspondence increased from 528 in 2005-2006 to 1318. Additionally, in-person faculty meetings increased from 266 to 419. Clearly, these numbers indicate increased involvement with faculty. Additionally, faculty involvement increased due to SOURCE participation and inclusion on a variety of faculty committees. Faculty committee work has helped to raise awareness of SOURCE and its programs and services.

4. Advance civic engagement through service-learning initiatives (MPH Community Practicum Course, SOM Physicians and Society Course, SON Community Outreach Course, service-learning and CBPR course lists, etc).

Service-learning is one model of community-engaged scholarship that can be integrated into academic courses. Through strong academic-community partnerships, SOURCE worked in collaboration with a variety of faculty to bring service-learning initiatives to campus. 2006-2007 marked the inaugural year for the MPH Community Practicum Course in JHSPH. 11 total students completed the two-term course, completing population-based health projects for community-based organizations. SOURCE continued its role of assisting with the SON Community Outreach Program, working alongside faculty to place over 100 nursing students with community outreach placements. Additionally, SOURCE was able to increase the number of appropriate placement sites for SON students by adding placement opportunities with SOURCE partnering organizations. Finally, in conjunction with an advocacy student group in JHSPH, a list of service-learning courses was created. SOURCE now maintains a section on its website that provides information on community-involvement courses, scholarships, and fellowship opportunities.

5. Implement policies for service-learning courses (course listings from all three Schools, Acknowledgment of Personal Responsibility forms, panel to address safety and awareness when working with the community).

Throughout the past few years, safety and security have been ongoing concerns within the University, particularly in relation to student involvement with community projects as a function of academic coursework. SOURCE pulled together a Safety Taskforce, including Legal Council, Risk Management, Corporate Security, faculty, and students to discuss these issues. It was decided that SOURCE could play a role in educating students about their personal responsibility and about safety tips. SOURCE drafted a letter to students which discussed personal responsibility when traveling to and from community sites. The Schools of Nursing and Medicine adapted the letter and sent it to all students in their schools. Additionally, SOURCE hosted a panel discussion titled "Community Involvement: Dispelling Myths and Providing Tips" to better educate students about being street smart. The discussion was well attended, and a video of this panel is available on SOURCE's website.

SOURCE 2007-2008 Goals:

1. Increase faculty involvement with SOURCE (including SOM LCME Service-Learning Standard, SON Department of Public-Community Health, JHSPH DrPH Program)

SOURCE has made great strides in increasing faculty involvement with the center. However, there are still significant opportunities to join forces with faculty within the three Schools. This year, we will focus on three particular opportunities in each of the Schools. In the SOM, a new LCME service-learning standard has been identified and must be implemented by July 2008. SOURCE's Director will co-chair a task force, along with Assistant Dean for Student Affairs in the SOM, to examine the service-learning standard. This initiative will include both extra-curricular and curricular opportunities. In the SON, SOURCE's Director is affiliated with the new Department of Community Public Health Nursing. Through this department structure, there is tremendous potential for increasing faculty awareness of SOURCE and its services. And finally, in JHSPH, new attention has been given to the School-wide DrPH program, especially in light of a new Program Chair and a recent student survey and report. SOURCE's Director has already met with Dr. Laura Morlock about possible linkages between SOURCE and the DrPH Program. Based on the flourishing relationship between SOURCE and the MPH Program, a strategic initiative will be implemented to provide intentional support and services for DrPH students.

2. Improve SOURCE assessment strategies (evaluation of events/programs, individual appointments, needs and satisfaction, and use what we already do more purposefully)

SOURCE already maintains a number of mechanisms to track involvement with students, faculty, and community-based organizations. However, the center will strive to produce improved assessment of our program and event offerings, measuring how educational information impacts those that we serve. Additionally, we plan to measure the needs and satisfaction of the students that utilize our services.

3. Grow available SOURCE resources for students and faculty (SOURCE Blog, service-learning tool-kit, more online forms, resource library)

SOURCE offers a wide array of services and resources that are available to members of the JHU SOM, SON, and SPH. This year, plans are in place to increase the types of available resources. Some new features will include: a SOURCE blog to have continued discussions after programs and events; a service-learning toolkit for student groups to utilize for reflection activities; improved course listings within the three Schools that relate to civic engagement, service-learning, community-based participatory research; list of community-engaged faculty; improve SOURCE's resource library by organizing and advertising available resources.

4. Implement HIV Counseling and Testing Program

After a loss of funding brought the SOM and SON HIV Counseling and Testing Program to a close, student leaders reached out to SOURCE for assistance in bringing the HIV Counseling and Testing Program back to life. SOURCE now has plans in place to institutionalize the HIV Counseling and Testing Program, and to serve as the home for the program. Plans are underway to offer an HIV Counseling and Testing training in early Fall of 2007. SOURCE will partner with three local clinics: Chase Brexton, HERO, and the Johns Hopkins Hospital Emergency Department. SOURCE's Coordinator will serve as the primary contact for implementing this program.

5. Increase student group collaborations

After two years of operation, students have certainly come to recognize SOURCE. With a new staffing structure, SOURCE's Coordinator has joined the team with a primary role of working directly with student groups. SOURCE values collaborations with students, student groups, CBOs, and faculty. During 2007-2008, we aim to increase our event collaborations with student groups, especially improving our numbers within the SOM and SON.

SOURCE Resources and Services

Annual Volunteer Fair In September of each year, CBOs set up display booths and acquaint students, faculty and staff with potential field experiences and collaborative research projects.

Baltimore Week In October of each year, SOURCE works in conjunction with a variety of student groups to host Baltimore Week – a weeklong introduction to the city and relevant health issues.

CBO Partnerships Those in SOURCE's network of partnering CBOs receive exposure and/or participation in all of SOURCE's programs. In addition, volunteer management and recruitment consultation is available from SOURCE staff. SOURCE has established an application process for CBOs that wish to become recognized SOURCE partners (including Mutual Expectations of Partners and Criteria for Partnering CBOs).

Charity/Donation Drives Four separate charity drives are conducted throughout the year to benefit CBOs within SOURCE's network (food, toy, book, toiletry) in collaboration with student groups, departments, and other university entities.

Community Service Awards These are given to students and student groups who have performed outstanding service with a CBO. Nominations are accepted each year in March, and awardees are announced during National Volunteer Week in April.

Community Tours SOURCE's Community Consultant, a long-time community leader, takes potential volunteers on scheduled tours through the East Baltimore neighborhood to familiarize students with the community. Both walking and bus tours are available, particularly during Orientations.

Monthly CBO Seminar Series Seminars familiarize students with the work done by CBOs and encourage collaboration between students and the community.

National Volunteer Week In April, SOURCE plans a weeklong calendar of events in celebration of National Volunteer Week. Service projects and CBO seminars are organized.

On-Line CBO Directory SOURCE's website is available 24 hours a day, 7 days a week to assist individuals in finding meaningful service opportunities. Our online directory of partnering CBOs is organized into a variety of categories and also includes a search feature to aid in locating appropriate CBO opportunities.

One-Time Service Projects SOURCE coordinates one-time service projects for those who lack the time to volunteer more frequently.

Reflection/Evaluation Form This online tool is used to assist in tracking student involvement experiences and evaluating partnerships with CBOs. Students self-report their hours, job responsibilities, and feelings regarding their experiences.

Student Advising SOURCE schedules meetings with students that are interested in a variety of community involvement opportunities. Students are assisted with: identifying CBOs and projects of interest, clarifying service-learning components of courses, developing customized internships, connecting to CBOs for fellowship and scholarship opportunities, and more.

Student Group Advising SOURCE works with student groups and organizations within all three Schools. Students are assisted with: special event planning, service projects, community speakers, grants and other funding opportunities, and more.

Student Resource Space SOURCE maintains a variety of resources that are available for usage related to community involvement: literature racks, files on all partnering CBOs, maps of Baltimore. Resources that are particularly useful for service-based student organizations include: student group mailboxes, fax machine, telephone, computer station, storage space, and a printer.

Student Volunteer Recruitment Kit During the summer months, all partnering CBOs receive a Student Volunteer Recruitment Kit. This booklet describes the needs, schedules, and desires of our special student populations. Additionally, academic programs that encourage/require community involvement are outlined. This kit is updated for each academic school year.

Tri-School Days of Service In both the Fall and Spring terms, SOURCE hosts Tri-School Days of Service. Students from all 3 Schools volunteer to participate in simple one-time service projects. Approximately 6-8 projects are organized on the same day, and large scale marketing efforts encourage students to give a day to the community.

Volunteer Celebration At the end of April, during National Volunteer Week, all students who have reported their community involvement experiences with SOURCE are invited to a Volunteer Celebration and Luncheon. Certificates are given to recognize students for their efforts.

Weekly Service Scoop The Scoop is an email service sent to subscribers once a week (every Tuesday) that is used to identify, catalog, and disseminate information on opportunities for community involvement, including one-time projects, special studies, capstones, internships, federal work-study, conferences, grants and on-going community involvement positions.

MPH Community Practicum Course

At the request of the MPH Program Office, SOURCE's Director has assisted in the creation of a new mentored MPH Community Practicum course, along with another faculty member from the School's Interdepartmental Program in Applied Public Health (IPAPH). This course increases opportunities for MPH students to conduct population-based projects with CBOs and local health departments. This year was the first year that the course was implemented and 11 students completed the course. Evaluations from both the students and the preceptors at the CBOs were extremely positive. Additionally, SOURCE has continued to participate with a team of staff and faculty to create an online one-stop shop for students who are seeking mentored field experiences.

Clinical Volunteer Opportunities

In December 2006, the Caroline St. Clinic for the Uninsured was closed. This was a clinical volunteer site for medical students. Once this site was closed, there was no longer a volunteer site for students wishing to utilize and develop clinical skills with the appropriate JHU SOM faculty supervision. SOM students organized to write a letter to JHMI/JHH administration which argued for a student-run clinic for the uninsured. SOURCE has been involved with many discussions related to this topic, including educating student leaders about the big picture in East Baltimore, searching for appropriate non-clinical service-learning opportunities at clinical sites (such as EBMC and BMS), and more.

Community Outreach Program

During the 2006-2007 school year, SOURCE's Director continued to work closely with SON faculty Lori Edwards and Kati Kluckman-Ault to assist in placing nursing students in CBOs for practical experiences as a part of the SON Community Outreach Program (COP). In order to participate in the COP, all students must complete NR100.426 Community Outreach to Underserved Populations in Urban Baltimore. The complex COP placement process requires a great deal of time, and consists of some of the following steps:

- Educate CBOs about the program and requirements.
- CBOs submit job descriptions to program staff.
- Students submit applications, ranking their preferred job placements.
- Secure FWS contracts with CBOs.
- Admissions team matches students with jobs at CBOs.
- Placements are altered due to scheduling and other conflicts.
- Students reported their activities through an online activities log.

SOURCE's Director was involved throughout the entire process. The related course and placement process occurred twice, with separate sections for accelerated and traditional students. In addition to aiding in the placement process, SOURCE provided resources for the course. SOURCE presented during the course, organized tours of East Baltimore, and helped to identify and arrange for guest speakers from CBOs.

At the completion of the academic school year, the following summary statistics were reported for the COP:

- 107 students participated in the COP
(18 more students than during the 05-06 school year)
- 21 CBOs were served
- 5136 hours of service were contributed in the community

Reported Volunteers

192 students reported their community involvement experiences via SOURCE's Online Feedback and Reflection Form. The following chart shows the breakdown of figures by separate schools, one-time vs. on-going service, and hours given to the community.

	Total # of volunteers	# of one-time vols	# of on-going vols	avg hrs/week for on-going vols	avg total committed time for on-going vols	Total Hours (one-time and on-going vols)
JHSPH	108	31	77	3.6	90	115 + 6833 = 6948
SOM	55	8	47	2.5	55	28 + 2663 = 2691
SON	29	5	24	4.1	77.5	22 + 1162 = 1184

SOURCE relies on students to self-report their community involvement experiences. This information does not capture the full picture of students' community involvement. Quarterly announcements were sent to all students via student listservs in each of the three Schools which requested students to fill out our online feedback and reflection form. Additionally, students were informed that entering their community involvement experiences would automatically enter them into a drawing to win a gift certificate. Other students were involved in community activities, but failed to report this information. In the SON alone, 107 students participated in the SON COP. However, these SON students were already required to fill out weekly activity logs through an online SON form. For SOURCE's Fall and Spring Tri-School Days of Service, approximately 200 students participated in these one-time service projects. Therefore, we can easily determine that student community involvement at our Schools is significantly underreported.

The Connection Community Consultant Group 2006-2007 Completed Projects

Baltimore Medical System, Inc.

Description: Baltimore Medical System (BMS) serves over 42,000 patients in many resource-poor communities throughout Baltimore City and Baltimore County. BMS services are provided through seven primary-care centers, a specialty center, and school-based health sites. With nearly 260 employees, BMS strives to provide affordable and accessible health care to those most in need.

Project: BMS recently administered a patient satisfaction survey to their non-English-speaking patients. The Connection team compiled the results of this survey and performed an analysis of the data that BMS had collected.

Connection team: 4 JHSPH students; 1 SOM student

Irvine Nature Center

Description: Irvine Nature Center is located in the Greenspring Valley region of Baltimore County. The organization provides quality environmental education to people of all ages. This includes programs for the public, programs in Baltimore-area schools, and special events throughout the year.

Project: The Connection team worked with the Irvine Nature Center to create a generic grant template that the organization can use when working with potential funders. This project included a literature review to demonstrate that environmental education is important to children and their health.

Connection team: 2 JHSPH students; 1 SOM student; 1 SON student

Maryland Mentoring Partnership

Description: The Maryland Mentoring Partnership (MMP) seeks to increase the number of Maryland youth who participate in mentoring relationships with adults. These relationships are designed to enhance students' academic and career options, raise self-esteem, and empower youth to eventually become self-sufficient. Blueprints for Youth is a new program launched by MMP to support youth and their families, in home and at school, with life skills training and referrals.

Project: Blueprints for Youth already has a mission and vision in place. Using these materials as a starting point, the Connection team developed policies and procedures to accompany Blueprints for Youth's business plan.

Connection team: 4 JHSPH students

Planned Parenthood of Maryland

Description: Planned Parenthood of Maryland (PPM) works to ensure that all Marylanders have access to a wide range of high quality, affordable, reproductive health care services. Through medical services, education, training, and advocacy, PPM seeks to help individuals make informed decisions about their reproductive health, family planning options, and sexuality.

Project: The Connection team researched possible funding sources that PPM could use to expand its education programming in Baltimore City, Baltimore County, and the state.

Connection team: 2 JHSPH students; 1 SOM student

Shepherd's Clinic

Description: Shepherd's Clinic provides primary health care to individuals who have no health insurance and are not eligible for government-assisted health care. Patients are seen by appointment and pay an hour's wage for an office visit.

Project: Shepherd's Clinic would like to reach out to the community to recruit patients, but it does not have much funding to support this type of endeavor. The Connection team prepared a community outreach campaign, including neighborhood events and door-to-door recruitment, to encourage people without medical insurance to utilize the clinic.

Connection team: 4 JHSPH students

Students Sharing Coalition, Inc.

Description: Students Sharing provides meaningful service and civic engagement experiences to students while helping these students to become mature and knowledgeable citizens who take responsibility for their communities and are committed to social justice. Students Sharing offers experiential learning programs and curricula that allow participants, through service to others, to learn about the world.

Project: Students Sharing wants to conduct an audit of its program costs. With this in mind, the Connection team examined the organization's budget to figure out costs per program, per school, and per child. Based on a review of the budget, the Connection team made programmatic and budgetary recommendations for expanding Students Sharing's services.

Connection team: 3 JHSPH, 1 SOM, 1 SON

Tench Tilghman Elementary School's Family Support Program

Description: Tench Tilghman Elementary School offers a comprehensive and coordinated educational program for children in grades pre-K through 5th. As part of this mission, the school offers a Family Support Program. The school is located a few blocks east of the Johns Hopkins Medical Institutions.

Project: Tench Tilghman's Family Support Program would like to track information about the services provided in the surrounding community. The Connection team developed a database to record baseline data that will facilitate action steps and outcomes. The system will be used to track activities and will allow for the aggregation of data.

Youth Opportunity Center

Description: The Youth Opportunity (YO!) Center works to help Baltimore City youth receive education and career skills training. The Center's services are available to anyone between the ages of 16 and 22 who is a Baltimore City resident. YO! services include GED classes, life skills classes, job readiness training, and youth-led community service and civic engagement activities.

Project: The Connection team developed a plan to improve recruitment of youth members for the YO! Center. This plan included improving the appearance of facilities, creating youth recruitment fliers, hosting open house and incentive programs, and developing a plan to expand services to include social and life skills activities.

Connection team: 2 JHSPH students; 1 SON student
