Bmore4kidz

Create a safe, nurturing creative environment that will foster hands-on, experiential learning to create, explore, make and innovate.

Yolanda Arthur, MPH Candidate, SOURCE Service Scholar, Johns Hopkins School of Public Health
CBO Preceptor: Angela LaPrade, 927 N. Wolfe St., Baltimore, MD 21205

What is Bmore4Kidz?
Bmore4Kidz strives to establish a safe, creative "maker space" in the community that encourages children to learn and create while engaging with their families. Bmore4Kidz works with grades 3 through 5 at Henderson-Hopkins.

SOURCE Service Scholar Project Aims

1. Developed a strategy procedure necessary to recruit volunteers to help with the after-school program on and off-site.
2. To develop a sustainable method to volunteer recruitment.

Activities, Outcomes and Accomplishments

1. Recruited 7 volunteers
2. Development of Recruitment schedule manual
3. New recruits welcome package
4. Updated website and Facebook page
5. Largest children's involvement to date
6. Advertisement posters

Lessons Learned

1. At times a child-like perspective is exactly what is needed to tackle seemingly complex issues.
2. Communication/interpersonal skills and planning are essential for effective collaborations.

Acknowledgements
I would like to thank the wonderful volunteers, the SOURCE team, the Living Classrooms Volunteering division and my CBO partners for their guidance, patience and support.