Thank you for participating in the SOURCE Online Module series. This document includes a number of resources to learn how to get more involved in Baltimore or to expand on the information included in the modules. Also know that SOURCE is always welcome to inquiries at source@jhsph.edu.

Get involved in Baltimore!
- Check out SOURCE’s website (www.jhsph.edu/source) to learn about programs and events to get involved in Baltimore through service-learning courses, consulting projects, long-term programming and one-time projects.

Get to Know the City:
- Baltimore City Neighborhood Health Profile: The Baltimore City Health Department compiled reports (in 2008 and 2011) for Baltimore’s 55 neighborhoods detailing health outcomes for each region. This resource is an excellent to identify the health disparities in the city.
- Bmore Art: “Bmoreart is a Baltimore-based online journal dedicated to reviewing and covering the contemporary visual arts, with special emphasis on emerging artists. We believe that smart, critical discussions are vital to the health and continual growth of Baltimore’s creative class.”
- Live Baltimore: A website to help “people find a place that they can call home in Baltimore. [They] gather resources, simplify information, research money-saving incentives, and offer firsthand knowledge about the city with the goal of cultivating and maintaining thriving neighborhoods.”
- What Weekly Magazine: “Launched in January 2010, What Weekly is an independent online magazine and calendar founded [which…] rallied a collective of artists, entrepreneurs, educators and writers that work together to produce media dedicated to telling the positive stories about Baltimore. We want to create positive social change by amplifying the good stuff.”
- SOURCE http://www.jhsph.edu/offices-and-services/source/audiences/students/know-baltimore/index.html

Housing/Neighborhoods:
- The 1968 Riots and the History of Public Housing Segregation in Baltimore (presentation by Barbara Samuels, April 2008).
- Not in my Neighborhood: How Bigotry Shaped a Great American City (By Antero Pietila, 2010)
- The Promised Uplands (By John Barry, City Paper article, 2008)
- Race, Class, Power and Organizing in East Baltimore (By Marisela Gomez, 2013)

Education:
- Brown in Baltimore: School Desegregation and the Limits of Liberalism (Howell Baum, 2010)

Health/Medical
- Henrietta’s Tumor (By RadioLab, Season 7, Episode 4)
- The Immortal Life of Henrietta Lacks (By Rebecca Skloot, 2010)
- Tapping Into the Wire: The Real Urban Crisis (By Peter Beilenson and Patrick McGuire, 2012)
- ICTR’s Community Research Review (Contact: Crystal Evans, cevans20@jhmi.edu): The Community Research Review is a guidance session where researchers present their project to the C-RAC Research Review Committee, a panel of patient and community engagement experts. These review sessions create a forum for community voices and perspectives to be included in research. For information, contact Crystal Evans.